Does you know different kinds of nouns exist. Common nouns named general things such as a lake, a person, or a toy. These nouns are not capitalized? Proper nouns, however, name a specific lake such as Mirror Lake or a specific person such as hank or maria. They can name a particular toy such as a Frisbee or play station 2. Proper nouns are more specific, and they must be capitalized. Teachers love to see students using these specific or proper nouns in there writing.

august 25 2006

dear mrs barton

Now that I am starting a new school year, i has a special request.

Please allow me to use a mechanical pencil in class this year

Since I am a year older and more responsible, I want to prove that I wood use a mechanical pencil like a tool and not a plaything. If you see me fiddling with it, you culd take away my privilege.

your student

That thunderstorm last night was pretty crazy the clouds looked like the darkest steel wool racing across the sky. I saw white zigzag flashes of lightning which were followed by a painful crash of thunder. My sister cat and dog ran to the basement in fear, but I stayed upstairs and watch enormous drops of rain go "splat" on the dry pavement. I could feel the concrete cooling off and smell the grass quenched its thirst
